The Evil in the crab House
The old crabber was on the estate of an abandoned crab home on a dark and rainy night
Five years earlier, the summer crab house next to the river was the scene of a death.

Now, it was all grown over with weeds...

The old crabber, out of fishing creek enters the crab house to set and think in the dark.

He was an old friend of the family that lived here

Tonight He had come back because he just received a letter from someone...
Who was surely dead?

But, how would the dead send a letter five years after they die.

The dead woman dies after she learns that she was carrying a baby by a Cambridge Maryland Jumping Preacher man.

The old crabber never did learn how the letter was mailed,
So he carried the letter with him when he dies
Thinking that maybe he would learn more about how it was mail in the afterlife.
